

Isaac KERLOW

Nanyang Technological University

Prof. Isaac Kerlow is a Principal Investigator at the Earth Observatory of Singapore where he develops films, games and websites inspired by Earth science and natural hazards. Some of his recent award-winning films include HAZE, it's complicated. (2018) and People of the Forest (2017). His team also produces the Earth Girl series of interactive casual strategy games for people to experience and better understand natural hazards. Prof. Kerlow is the founding Dean of the School of Art, Design and Media at the Nanyang Technological University, and also the founding Chairperson of the legendary Department of Computer Graphics and Interactive Media at Pratt Institute in New York City.