Introduction - Ewha Woman's University

ECC (Ewha Campus Complex) is a campus building designed by Dominique Perrault, the same French architect who has designed the famous French National Library. Forming a gentle slope, the building has a unique form of structure that surrounds a long centralized passageway. It even went to win the Seoul Architecture Awards back in 2008. Once holding the campus track field, the ECC site now holds an eco-friendly campus complex that stays cool during the summer and warm during the winter. Even more beautiful at night, ECC also houses study halls, lecture halls, exhibition halls, a bookstore, and many other school facilities within its walls.
